Youth develop confidence, responsibility through the 4-H Mini-Horse Project

Submitted by 4-H volunteer Katie Nebel-Boomer

The miniature horse program was a huge success thanks to dedicated horse leaders and 4-H families! Miniature horses and exhibitors compete in many different types of classes from jumping, obstacles, costume, cart and speed and action classes! Miniature horses offer a great way for kids to learn about responsibility of caring for an animal as well as confidence in the show ring. If you don't have a horse, this is a good way to start your child in the horse program. Check out our shows during the summer at Camp Rotary, the Armada Fair or even feel free to contact one of the leaders in the Miniature 4-H clubs that Macomb County offers!

4-H school clubs are fun

Submitted by 4-H Volunteer Katie Nebel-Boomer

Lobbestael Elementary in Harrison Township has been a 4-H club for two years under the direction of Macomb County 4-H Program Coordinator Lizz Duran. The 4th graders in Mrs. Nebel's class meet monthly to learn about the Junior Master Gardener Program.

The club at Lobbestael Elementary inspired some families to meet after school on their own to work on projects, and the 4-H members are looking forward to their first fair where they can showcase the exhibits that they have been working hard on. They will be showing projects in horticulture, agriculture, photography, veterinary science and more!

Youth learn about coding at 4-H Clovers Code Camp

During the last week of July, MSU Extension Macomb held this year's 4-H Clovers Code Camp for youth. The camp ran from July 24-27. Participants met for three hours each day. Youth had the opportunity to learn basic coding concepts using Swift, Apple iPads, and Sphero robots.

4-H Exploration Days

By 4-H Member Brooke B.

Thank you to the Macomb MSUE 4-H group for another great year at the MSU Exploration Days!

When I was at the MSU Exploration Days, I learned so much! One of my classes was about being a veterinary nurse. In that class, I learned about the different jobs in a veterinary office and also got to do a bandaging lab. In another class, I learned about forensic science and how to identify fingerprints. I was also able to collaborate with others to solve a mystery. In my last class, I was able to learn about how to care for puppies. I even got to make dog treats to take home!

What I really liked about MSU 4-H Exploration Days was that I met a lot of new people all while finding my way around campus with friends, and being independent. Overall, the MSU Exploration Days were a great opportunity for me to learn new things, be on my own, and meet new people. I'm looking forward to next year!

Strategies for decreasing the spread of disease at fair

Below are some strategies that can be implemented at your fair or event to help keep animals healthy and decrease the spread of disease:

Reduce how often pigs are comingled at the fair.

Choose to weigh pigs at a time other than their arrival to decrease the possibility of spreading disease by using a common scale. Alternative options include:

- Showing pigs based on owner-declared weights and utilizing a weigh-back system (weighing only the top placing pigs in each class) to ensure weights are accurate. Then, weigh all pigs eligible for sale just before the sale.
- Instead of weighing pigs when they arrive at the fair, weigh pigs before the show (evening prior or morning of the show), specifically if the show date happens mid or late fair week.

If weighing in pigs at the start of the fair, disinfection is essential:

- Thoroughly clean and disinfect the scales between trailer loads of swine to prevent the initial spread of any illness. Be sure the disinfectant is applied to the scale's face plate, where a pig's nose meets the scale.

- Use a disinfectant specifically targeted to control viruses and that can be applied with a hand or backpack sprayer.
- Follow the label directions regarding the dilution rate and contact time.
- Accelerated hydrogen peroxide disinfectants (such as Accel or Rescue) will deactivate the swine influenza virus after just one minute of contact time.
- If possible, allow more time for weigh-in to ensure equipment can be properly disinfected, and pigs are not nose-to-tail as they go through the scales.

Do not walk underweight pigs through the barn to weigh them or to load them when sending home.

Consider not running pigs through the auction ring to reduce additional stress. Instead, bring only the exhibitor into the ring or plan on displaying photos of the animals.

Send home any non-sale pigs prior to showing (if underweight) or immediately following the show.

Clean and disinfect any areas where pigs may comingle daily, including practice rings or wash racks.

Consider reducing the number of days that swine are present at the actual event. As always, it is vital to observe swine for any signs of potential illness; have a thermometer available to take temperatures. Symptoms of swine influenza can range from very mild to more severe, such as having a lack of appetite, fever, mild coughing, nasal discharge, and ocular discharge to a "barking" cough and respiratory distress ("thumping" while lying on its side). Vomiting and diarrhea are sometimes noted as well.

If a pig has a fever of 105°F or greater, please get in touch with the Michigan Department of Agriculture and Rural Development \(MDARD\) immediately at 800-292-3939 (daytime) or 517-373-0440 (after-hours). If an animal's temperature is not 105°F or greater, but it's displaying signs of illness, contact your fair veterinarian, and isolate the ill animal or send it home. If sent home, be sure to get the name and address of the owner for potential follow-up by MDARD. Finally, encourage other good biosecurity practices at your event to help keep pigs and people healthy. These practices include:

Observing animals for signs of illness and reporting ill swine to the fair veterinarian.
Having signs posted encouraging all those entering an area with animals to wash their hands with soap and water when leaving or use hand sanitizer.

Cleaning and disinfecting all tack, feeders, waterers, and other supplies between shows. Do not share equipment; but if sharing is needed, be sure the equipment is thoroughly cleaned and disinfected.

Prohibiting food, drinks, or sleeping in areas with animals, such as in barns or pens.

More information and resources (including tip sheets, printable signage, and biosecurity information) can be found on MDARD's website or on MSU Extension's Swine Influenza webpage or their Fair and Exhibition Animal Health page. Questions regarding these preventative practices or swine influenza can be directed to Dr. Daniel MacArthur, MDARD's Swine Program Manager, or Beth Ferry, MSU Extension Pork Educator.
