To find each book, check with your local library, bookstore or online retailer.

AFTER READING:

- ▶ Spend time talking about the story.

Deployment involves moving an individual or military unit within the country or to another country. A mission or task might include training, supporting communities during times of disaster, helping foreign countries or fighting in a war. The many changes happening with each departure and return create difficulties for both service members and their families.

While You Are Away

Title: While You Are Away
Author: Eileen Spinelli
Illustrator: Renée Graef
Publisher: Hyperion Books for Children
Place of Publication: New York, New York
Date of Publication: 2004
Audience Age: 3 to 7 years

SUMMARY

While You Are Away tells the story of three children with parents in three different branches of the military: the Navy, the Air Force and the Army. The children talk about the things they miss doing with their parents and wonder if their parents miss them.

PRE-DEPLOYMENT ACTIVITIES

- Have your child and service member choose a special blanket, pillow or piece of clothing belonging to your service member that your child can keep during the deployment. When your child misses the service member, have him or her get the item out, hold it and talk about a favorite memory shared with the service member.
- As a family, make a list of your service member's favorite things such as snacks, books or colors. Save it for deployment to use when making care packages to send to your service member.

DURING-DEPLOYMENT ACTIVITIES

- Write letters to your service member and include questions that your child would like to know the answers to such as "What do you eat for breakfast?" or "Where do you sleep?" Your service member can reply to the questions. After receiving the answers from your service member, talk with your child about the similarities and differences between what your child does and what your service members does.
- Instead of whispering in the wind as the little boy did in the book, make tin can telephones so that your child can tell private thoughts and feelings to your service member. Clean two tin cans such as soup cans. Cut one of the ends out of each of the cans. Attach a string to the other ends of the cans by poking a hole in the end. Your child can use these telephones to talk to your service member when lonely.

POST-DEPLOYMENT ACTIVITIES

- Create family placemats showing your favorite or important things. Use during meal times to help everyone reconnect with each other.
- Plan a special day out for your children and your service member around their favorite activities. Enjoy a day at the park or a trip to get ice cream. This creates time to reconnect around an activity they enjoy doing together.
